

ONE-HANDED LIFTING AND REACHING

Lots of back injuries occur from one-handed lifting and reaching because it puts a twist on your spine while it is under load. The fix is super simple—just bridge your free hand to a solid object. That stabilizes you and transfers the load off your back and into the object you are bridging to!