

Never work in a position that makes your back hold the weight of your upper body. Using a spray can like this will gradually wear down your back and give you arthritis before your time.

Instead, get creative and supply yourself with the proper equipment for the job. In this case, the spray can is being held in an extension tool designed to eliminate the bending required for this job.

PAINTING LINES